LOS ANGELES – Dec. 21, 2017 – Genton Property Group (GPG), a privately held real estate investment company and developer of sophisticated real estate strategies, completed a major milestone for the exclusive Four Seasons Private Residences Los Angeles with a 10-hour, 377-truck concrete pour on Wednesday, Dec. 20.

Approximately 60 Webcor concrete personnel and more than 100 other union workers poured 915 tons of concrete to form the foundation for 58 luxury condos and a penthouse that will redefine luxury living in Los Angeles.

“When you begin such an ambitious project, each milestone provides not only a sense of pride for the development team, but also excitement and anticipation for the dozens of buyers who have already signed purchase agreements,” said Jonathan Genton, founder and CEO of Genton Property Group and developer of the Four Seasons Private Residences Los Angeles project.

Located at 9000 W. Third St., the project includes 58 luxury condos across three wings – The Tower, The Wetherly Wing and The Almont Wing – with sizes of more than 2,400 square feet, and a top-floor penthouse.

Genton notes that delivering a project at that price point requires every detail, especially the foundation, be perfect. The project is scheduled for completion in mid-2019.
